The Project

HMP & YOI Parc is Category B local prison housing approximately 900 male adults (convicted only) and young offenders (convicted and on remand). The prison opened in November 1997 and is the only private prison in Wales. It is managed by G4S Justice Services on behalf of the Prison Service.

Alder King was appointed by G4S to review the existing facilities management regime provided by the 'in house' resident team, in order to ensure it was properly able to support and enhance operational activities within the prison. This review resulted in the services being outsourced via a competitive tender process which Alder King designed, managed and ultimately implemented on behalf of G4S.

The support service included:

Planned and reactive maintenance, statutory inspections, cleaning, health & safety compliance, incident control, ground maintenance

The Outcome

The new contract arrangement has proven hugely beneficial to G4S with not only significant cost savings but improved legal, contractual and technical compliance, greater governance and control and the creation of information systems which aid and inform management decision making.
